Machine Gun Platoon, Captain Ernest Rogers.

The regiment marched direct to Plant Field, and, as soon as regimental formation was completed, the presentation of colors took place. The colors were presented by Miss Leana La Pointe, a student of Columbia college, and daughter of Captain J. N. La Pointe of G Company, the young lady being the donor of the flags. In a few words Miss La Point made the presentation and the colors were accepted in hebalf of the regiment by Colonel Kirkland. The colors were turned ever to the color bearers, who were escorted to and from the point of presentation by Captain La Pointe's company. The colors were given over to Company D, of Mystic, the color company, being the second in the second battalion commanded by Major Williams.

After the presentation the regiment was reviewed by Gavernor Helcomb

After the presentation the regiment was reviewed by Governor Holcomb. After the passage in review the officers' call says sounded. The officers formed in hollow square and were addressed by the governor. He combilmented the Home Guarders on their excellent military appearance and recited the origin of the organization, the liberality of the state in furnishing the liberality of the state in furnishing equipment, and what the people expected in return. He was satisfied that the state had bade no mistake and was fortunete in securing a Home citizenship that had been left behind The day was ideal for a military outing and the military display was sure ly a credit to the officers and men the Third Connecticut.
